

GOING TO GROUND SCJRTC NEWSLETTER Prez Sez

Please don't forget to vote for the club's new officers. You can mail in your ballots or bring them to the fun day, June 21, 2008.

Thank you all for your continued support of the SCJRTC. We are in a transition faze as we vote for our new officers to represent our club towards the end of 2008, into 2009. Please look for your ballots in the mail this month that will allow you to vote for those already nominated or write in a candidate. All ballots must be to the club Secretary, Sharon Green by June 21st to be counted.

Now is the time where we are pulling the club back onto it's feet, with Fun Days and the talk of a trial. I am very optimistic that all the hard work done in the past will be paying off in the near future. With your continued support, I know that we can do it.

On a personal note, my children are getting to the age where sports, cub scouts and school activities are the focus of my attention, not to mention my husband, personal dogs and dog training business. I want to ensure that our club continues to move forward with people that have the time to dedicate to the business at hand. For this reason I have declined the nomination for President for the next term. I will continue to support our club every step of the way and as always will be available to educate and help others with these wonderful little terriers.

I hope to see you all at our Fun Day in June, I encourage you to bring a dog friend. Remember any dog under 30 pounds is welcome to come and play. For more information go to www.scjrtc.com.

All my best to you and your terriers! ~ Bree

Arizona Rescue Trial

Lysa and I, took Remi to the M&I Bank Arizona Rescue Trial in March. Just to start off, I want to say that we had a great time and everyone was so nice to us. To start things off on Saturday, Remi placed second in his heat in over dog flat racing to make it to the finals in this event for his first time. In the flat finals he placed fourth. He then ran over dog hurdles and also placed second in his heat, making it to finals where he placed fifth, not making the championship run off. But who cares, he finally made it to final in racing. This is a dog who always placed last in racing, so we quit racing him until now. In conformation, he won suitability to racoon and badger, but did not place in the spayed/ neutered championship round.

On Sunday, he made the finals in both flat and hurdles racing but did not make the run off. Once again, he won suitability to racoon and badger. He won neutered class and got Reserve Champion in the spayed/ neutered class, loosing to Sue Ann Wilson's "Jackie Oh".

We also spent the weekend with English Judge Joe Smith under our tent. He was a pleasure to talk to and shared his experiences hunting in England with us. Colleen Reeder also made us feel at home in Arizona. After helping her set up the conformation ring on Friday, the rescue and her treated all the helpers to pizza and beer. The folks who run the rescue and their neighbors allowed us to stay on their property. Lysa even offered to help feed his cows on Saturday and Sunday mornings.

All in all, the trial was great. Great prizes, good food and best of all good friends. That is what going to trials is all about.

Oklahoma 2008

We have been hooked for about a year. Our first trial was the Patriot Games at Lake Perris. 2007. Since then we have traveled to some beautiful locations. The latest trip was to Stillwater, Oklahoma. Beautiful yes, but humid!! It was a really great experience and I got to travel with the dog out of state. I had the dog riding in cargo and was a little apprehensive, but he seemed to do fine. Didi and I had made plans to meet up at the Hotel. After getting the dog, the luggage, renting the car, figuring out the GPS, I arrived in Stillwater Friday afternoon.

We arrived early at the trial site with the intent of helping set up, but they had gotten a head start on Friday. Since we had some spare time, we were able to socialize and meet some of the participants. Trials are always so hectic and it was nice to have the spare time to meet everyone and put faces with names. It was getting close to 8 am, so we headed over to the race track. The track was in a nice, grassy area out under the trees. The racing started right at 8 am and Soul Man was entered in the 9-12 month over puppy class. There were not a lot of puppies entered, but it really didn't matter. Didi had the job of putting the dogs in the box and I was to pick them up. When that gate opened and Soul Man flew down the track, all of the practice at Didi's farm paid off. Seaview Soul Man was Over Puppy Champion on Saturday and Sunday ! I was so proud of him.

I have seen how hard it is to run a trial and try to race your dogs, so we volunteered to help out Shelley with racing her dogs. It was so confusing. She has a puppy, Ariel 4-6 months, another puppy, Shaman 6-9 months, an adult, Bonbon, and Didi's Smiley and Dweezil. Plus Soul Man. Thank goodness Didi got the dogs ready and I just picked them up. So it was puppy, puppy, puppy, two under adults and then one over adult. Throw in a couple of champion races and we were running our butts off!! It was really a lot of fun and all the dogs did well.

After the racing we went into the arena for conformation. Last year when I started watching the dogs in the ring, I was so clueless. Not that I am an expert now but I now have some knowledge of the breed and different types that are within the breed standard. Sitting next to Didi, we compared our thoughts, evaluated the dogs, look at the dogs movement and tried to recognize what the judge was looking for. It was really fun and I learned a lot.

I have gone to a few handlers classes in Yorba Linda, at a place called Jump Start. But nothing really prepares you for being in the conformation ring. It is nerve racking. And again, Soul Man pulled it off. He was first in his class, 9-12 month pup rough/broken and reserve in best dog pup. Of course I was like a little kid smiling from ear to ear!!!

The results were:

Soul Man racing puppy champion Sat and Sun. 1st dog pups 9-12 rough/broken. Reserve dog pup Sat.

Sea view Ariel First flat racing 4-6 month. Miles of Smiles, 4th flat racing bitch under, 2nd hurdles. Seaview Dweezil 1st in over bitches in hurdles and flat, reserve adult racing over on Saturday. But Sunday Dweezil was Adult racing Champion.

The only mishap we almost had was on Sunday. During the puppy racing it started to thunder and we had some lightening. That lightening is bright!! It seemed so close and the sky was so black. The natives finally said we were going to stop racing and that everyone was to bring the cars into the arena. I thought it was because of the lightening. I later learned that it was because they were expecting hail. Hail ???!! The size of baseballs!! Hail!! And even though we didn't get the hail, it rained so hard for about an hour, I thought we were going to need a boat to get to our hotel. When it stopped, it became humid and 95!!

We made it home. We had a wonderful time and I learned so much. Traveling with your dog is a lot of fun and I would not hesitate to send the dog in cargo. He did well. We don't have any definite plans for any more plane trips but....I hear there is a trial in Texas in November !!!

Have a great time with the dogs that you love. And have fun. We sure are!!!!

THE ZEN GAME

Pawsitive Principles Dog Training
Bree Beery, Owner/Trainer

A Julie Daniels attention game with a slight variation
by Audrey Ferrel, CPDT.

This game is designed to get your dog to focus on you. It is meant to encourage him through positive reinforcement to make eye contact. The dog will quickly learn that when he makes eye contact, he gets a cookie and will soon be staring at you instead of at whatever is in your hand.

\ It is ideal to shape your dog to look at you before starting this game. This means that whenever he happens to look at you, you say "yes" or click and then offer him a treat. You do not prompt the behavior. Once he has a reinforcement history for looking at your face, the following Zen Game will be easier.*

1. Get your dogs' favorite motivator ready to go. This could be food or toy.
2. Don't let him have it but hold it arms length. Be very still and look him in the face.
3. Your dog may be jumping around at this point. Ignore this. Do not reprimand him.
4. As soon as his eyes flash to your face say "Yes" or click and give him what you have!
5. Don't expect puppies to pick this up right away. Keep practicing, he'll get it! Play the Zen game often and with different treats and toys! Once he's really good at making eye contact when he sees the prize at arms length, bring it down by your side where he could easily grab it. If he goes for it, close your hand around it and wait for him to back off. Once he does, open your hand so he can see it and wait for eye contact and reward.
6. BE PATIENT! Keep your training sessions to 2 minutes. REMEMBER TO GIVE HIM A BREAK AND TO END ON A POSITIVE NOTE WHEN HE IS STILL IN TO THE GAME!

BOOK REVIEW

Another good book put together by Jonathan Darcy and Darcy Books. This is the first book in a small series. This series is going to be a collaboration of short, terrier hunting stories from all of Jon Darcy's friends and terrier men. This first book is 93 pages of fascinating tales of terriers going to ground against some of England's fiercest quarry, mainly the Red Fox and Badger (when it was legal). Throughout the book there are some good photos of working terriers, quarry and of the folks who contributed to this book. It's a must read. The book is available at www.darcybooks.com for $14.68 plus shipping.

Yankee, Yankee, Yankee

By
Sam Hummel

We made the trek to Connecticut for the Yankee Trial, but while at the Yankee Trial I was doing my apprenticeship to become a Go-to-Ground Judge. So I was not able to see to much of the show. That is too bad, because I met some really nice people while at Go-to-Ground that I would have liked to spend more time talking to. But I got the apprenticeship done and now it's up to the judges Committee.

Enough of that. While working as GTG Judge, we used a electronic timing device in the Champion Tunnel (long tunnel). What I learned by using the electronic timer, is that the dogs are about 2-3 tenths of a second faster than I was using a stop watch. Is this good or bad? We still made mistakes even with the electronic timer. Like forgetting to reset it and having to use the time on the stop watch. The rain shorted the electronic timer out for a while.

2 DAYS AND 6 HOGS

BY
Sam Hummel

What a trip to Maine this turned out to be. We did a two day hunt with Working Judge Rob McCaslin, Alan Wylie and Tressie Cowen. This is how it went:

The first day was Monday, May 26. We started out to the field at about 8 a.m. We got to the first farm and right away we had dogs in the ground and it appeared that they were

But all the handlers were happy with the times that their dogs got. But I prefer the use of a stop watch. At this trial, it seemed like we were in puppy heaven. There were so many puppies running in the pre-novice class and other puppy GTG classes. If one was looking for a pup, this trial would have been to get one. Heck, I almost had Lysa convinced to buy a puppy from Lorie Belvedere at Rebel Run Terriers. But Lysa is not ready for a pup just yet.

On Saturday, there were only two terriers that got a GTG time under 4 seconds and they were both in the Veterans class. Our Remi finished with a third place in Over Champion Certificate both days. On Sunday, the GTG times were crazy. There were so many dogs under 4 seconds and under the 3 1/2 second mark. No terriers that went through the big tunnel went under 3 seconds. After all was said and done, we judged over 110 terriers at the GTG tunnels each day but there were more terriers for racing and conformation. Not a bad turn out though.

getting stuck somewhere. We dropped a couple of holes about 1 1/2-2 feet down to move them along. Soon we had a dog baying. Another dog entered the set on the opposite side to corner the quarry. About that time, a groundhog bolted from another hole and Remi was hot on it's heels. Remi grabbed it by the tail before it could completely disappear into the hole it tried to enter. As hard as Remi tried, he could not draw it out and lost his grip. That hog got away, but there were still dogs in the ground. Rob opened up to find the dogs baying at yet another adult hog. The dogs were removed and the hog was left for another day. It was on to the next farm, so we loaded and headed out.

Before lunch, we checked out another farm. As we walked along in the middle of the field looking for sets, Alan's dog Vinnie and Rob's dog Zulu were very interested in a multi hole set that was on top of a hill. Zulu being only about 11 inches had a rough going into the the set. By the material she was cleaning out it was obvious that this set was full of potato sized rocks. Zulu kept cleaning out and we kept raking the rocks out from behind her. Rob decided that he would drop a hole in front of her to help get rid of some of the rock. Rob ended up having to drop 3 holes so she could move on. Finally she came out and found an easier way to her quarry through another hole. Vinnie dropped into one of the holes that Rob had dropped and soon began to bay but could not press on to get close to his quarry. Then you could hear Zulu open up about a foot from Vinnie was. Rob decided that a fourth hole would need to be dropped. As we sank the the shovel into the ground, a large groundhog bolted from the original hole Zulu entered. We tied the dogs up, backfilled and went to lunch.

After lunch we went to a farm that we went to the last time I hunted with Rob for a quick look. As soon as we pulled into the gate, Alan saw a groundhog enter a rock pile. We got out of the trucks and we put Remi and Vinnie on the ground to try to corner the hog. It was not long before Remi and Vinnie had the groundhog boxed in and both were baying. We tied Remi out and started to move some rocks so we could get a look at the hog. After getting a look and not able to reach the quarry to pull it out. We entered Remi to try to draw it out. After about ten minutes, it seemed the hog was well in place and not moving. We took the opportunity to school some green dogs on the quarry. After a short schooling session the hog was aloud to bolt

We went to the next farm and it was not long before Remi and Rob's dog Copper found something in a hole on the bank of a creek. Because Copper entered first, Remi was tied out. It was not long after Copper entered that he could be heard baying about 10 feet from where he entered. We got a locate on him at about 2 feet down and began to dig. As we dug to Copper he stayed with his quarry. When we opened up on him. We could see that the tunnel was very tight for his 11 inch frame. He was on his side, squeezing through the tunnel while baying at a large groundhog only a few inches from him. Copper was removed from the hole and the hog was allowed to bolt. We back filled and called it a day.

The next day would be a short one, for Rob had some things to do before his move to Kansas. So we decided to check a pretty good sized farm. Upon our arrival, the farmer told us of some active sets by some dead pine trees. I out Remi on the ground and headed over to them. Remi was very interested and entered. He could only go about 6 feet into the set and would stop. We thought it might be to tight for him, so Remi was removed and Rob's dog Alaska was entered. She got to the same spot and stopped. We used a bar to check to which way the tunnel went and found that it turned to the left and that the quarry was most likely just beyond the turn. So we opened up where the dogs had stopped and opened the turn a bit with posthole diggers. Alaska was able to make the turn and opened up. Rob sank the bar in ahead of Alaska and opened up another just above the quarry. Alaska was removed and Remi was aloud to reenter the set from the entrance and finish the job. He located the hog and tried to draw it, but could not. The hog was then tailed out. The shoulders on the hog had to be about 12 inches or more wide and weighed about 20 pounds. It was released and back filled to end a great hunt. Thanks Rob!
